LILLIAN SANDERSON KILLED BY EXPRESS: SISTER CANNOT LIVE

TRAIN HITS AUTO OF SEWARD
SANDERSON OF LEE—NINE WERE IN CAR.

ENGINE DIES ON THE TRACK

Express Train Rushes Down Upon Them Before They Can Leave Car —Bodies Hurdled Many Feet.

Aurora, July 27.—Special to Telegraph—Lillian Sanderson, the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seward Sanderson, farmers living near Lee, was instantly killed and other members of the family were dangerously if not fatally injured, when a train struck their auto near Sugar Grove, a village near Aurora. The family, composed of Sanderson, his wife and six children, ranging in age from 11 years to two months old, and their nurse, Miss Carrie Brown had left their home early in the day and were taking a 40-mile trip and were headed for home again this evening.

As they were driving along, approaching a railroad crossing, they struck a place in the road where cinders had been piled deep and left unrolled. In trying to negotiate the freshly laid cinders Mr. Sanderson "killed" his engine and the car stopped directly on the railroad tracks of the Burlington road.

Sanderson got out to crank his car and looking up the track saw the headlight of a rapidly approaching train, which proved to be the Burlington Express, No. 57. He realized the danger and called: "Jump children, for your lives. A train is coming."

The children were sleepy and crowded in the car, but they struggled to obey the warning. Mrs. Sanderson sat in front with a 2-months' old boy and little four year old Violet. She was blocked on one side by the wheel and the little girl, Violet, who was too confused to jump when she told her. The rest of the children were in the tonneau of the car with the nurse.

In the meantime Mr. Sanderson, who was frantic with terror at the approaching catastrophe, made a desperate effort to push the automobile off the tracks and had almost succeeded in getting the back wheel over the outside track when he found that the speeding train was upon him and he barely had time to jump to save his own life. The train crashed into the rear of the auto and the engineer, S. A. Abraham, stopped his train as soon as possible. The crew found Sanderson beside the track in a swoon and they revived him and started the hunt for the rest of the family.

The first they found was the dead body of little Lillian, forty feet from the crossing, where she had been hurled by the collision. Her sister, Violet, lay near her, moaning. Off in the dark somewhere they could hear the lusty yells of the baby and they knew he was not badly hurt. They found him unscratched but near him, her hand clutching his dress, lay his mother, unconscious and internally injured. The other children and the nurse were thrown considerable distances, but suffered no serious injuries.

A special train was sent for and the dead and injured were taken to Aurora. Violet and her mother were taken to St. Joseph's hospital and the physician in attendance says that little Violet cannot live. Mrs. Sanderson may recover, according to the physicians.

Dixon—The Sandersons are well known in various parts of this county and are people of high standing in their community. The accident has cast a pall of gloom over the entire neighborhood.

W. B. BRINTON MAY RUN FOR SENATOR

DIXON'S MAYOR FREQUENTLY
MENTIONED FOR THE UPPER HOUSE—WOULD MAKE GOOD CANDIDATE.

The name of Mayor W. B. Brinton is being frequently mentioned as a democratic candidate for senator from the 35th senatorial district.

It is claimed by many Whiteside county democrats that it is that county's turn to have the democratic member of the lower house as Lee county has the present member and DeKalb county had the member during the preceding term.

Secretary Walsh of the Mystic Workers, who lives at Fulton, is said to be the Whiteside county candidate for the lower house. It is quite probable that in view of present political conditions that the democrats will nominate two candidates for the lower house and in the event Mayor Brinton becomes a candidate for the state senate it is assumed if there are two candidates for the lower house that one of them will be from Whiteside county and the other from DeKalb county.

It is claimed that Mayor Brinton would stand an excellent chance of election to the senate in case he should become a candidate and many of his friends throughout the district are urging him to get into the race.

The campers awoke this morning feeling that the Assembly had really begun and then prepared for two weeks of entertainment and recreation.

Blue Monday, as we often hear the first day of the business week termed, was not so blue on the grounds. Everybody here seemed cheerful and contented.

This afternoon at 2:30 Mrs. Marian Chase Schaeffer of Chicago, reader and mezzo soprano, gave a delightful entertainment that pleased several thousand. She captivated her audience from the beginning. Her readings were filled with pathos and humor and many hearty laughs were enjoyed.

Program Tonight.
7:30, Mrs. Marian Chase Schaeffer.
8:00, Lecture, "Martyrdom of Fools," Thomas Brooks Fletcher.
9:30, Moving pictures.

Fletcher is a brilliant platform lecturer. He is the strongest man on the lecture course and his message ought to be heard in every town in the land. He is eminently fitted by nature for his chosen profession and has gifts of an orator.

Orchestra Cannot Come.
On account of serious illness the Rounds Ladies' orchestra will not appear at the Assembly tomorrow, but a better musical attraction will be here, Heaton Sisters. This attraction has been on the program at Winona for several years and it was there the manager of the Dixon Assembly heard them and was much impressed with their music.

The Heaton Sisters will cost the management more to bring to Dixon than the Rounds orchestra, but the latter ladies have been here several times and all were well pleased with them.

Nearly 8000 people attended the exercises at Rock River Assembly on Sunday. There were more than 500 automobiles in the park. Every city and village in Lee and adjoining counties sent delegations. The attendance was beyond the expectations of the management.

Saturday was a bigger day in point of attendance than the opening day last year. And Sunday went beyond the first Sunday a year ago in entertainment and attendance. The Sunday question has been solved. With a strong Sunday program the people will turn out. This was proven yesterday when nearly 5000 people sat in the auditorium with the thermometer exceedingly high, for one hour and thirty minutes and listened to Dr. W. R. Wedderspoon of Washington, D. C., deliver a sermon-lecture.

Dr. Wedderspoon came to Dixon Assembly a stranger, but returned to his home much beloved by all who listened to his excellent address. Should he return to the Assembly as a lecturer he would be the means of drawing thousands to Dixon.

The talented divine chose for his subject, "The Tragedy of King Saul." The tragedy in the life of the re-

BER OF STATE GOOD ROADS
COMMISSION—OTHER APPOINT-MENTS.

James Wilson of Woosung, former democratic leader of the lower house of the general assembly, was Saturday made a member of the new good roads commission by Gov. Dunne, who also made a large number of other appointments. Mr. Wilson was the only member of the commission appointed by the governor, but S. E. Bradt, president of the First National bank of DeKalb who is well known here, is said to be in line for appointment as republican member of the commission. Mr. Bradt is chairman of the good roads committee of the Illinois Bankers' association. Ex-Mayor Ditmar of Freeport, who is also known here, was made a member of the fish and game commission.

DIXON LAW GRADS TO BE HERE THIS WEEK

HELD IN ELKS' CLUB HOUSE.

The first annual reunion of graduates of the Dixon College of Law will be held here Wednesday and Thursday of this week and assurances have been received to indicate that probably 100 or more will be in attendance.

Thursday the guests will be taken for a boat ride up the river, when the beautiful spots which make Rock river so popular, will be shown. The reunion promises to be a most enjoyable affair and no doubt it will result in annual meetings in Dixon of a similar nature.

DIXON BROWNS HAVE REORGANIZED TEAM

EXPECT TO PLAY FIRST GAME
OF SEASON ON SUNDAY
AFTERNOON.

The Dixon Browns are being reorganized and the players of the new team expect to make their first appearance next Sunday afternoon. Efforts are being made to secure the Jake Stahls of Chicago for the first game, but if they are not obtainable Battery A of Clinton or the Sterling West Ends will be secured. The team will be composed of local players, with the exception of center field, third base and short stop, for which positions three fast Freeport men are engaged.

MANY AUTOMOBILES

IN DIXON SUNDAY
Hundreds of autos visited Dixon yesterday, the Rock River Assembly drawing visitors from all over this section. The local garages enjoyed a liberal patronage and the streets were especially busy in the afternoon and evening.

STARS WIN WITH RALLY IN NINTH

SCORE WINNING RUN WITH TWO MEN GONE IN LAST INNING.

SCORE: DIXON, 2; ELGIN, 1

Best Ball Game of Season Played at Athletic Park on Sunday Afternoon.

By suddenly changing their tactics in the last half of the ninth inning the Dixon Stars defeated the Elgin Athletic club Sunday afternoon at Athletic park by a 2 to 1 score, the game being the best seen here this season. All during the pastime the teams battled valiantly and evenly and furnished the fans some real enjoyable amusement. Good baseball was paramount and the two aggregations went into the ninth inning 1 all.

And, believe the fans, that ninth inning was some real sport. Charlie Keenan, who had pitched great ball all during the game, tired slightly under the heat, and at his suggestion Heresfield went in to pitch the ninth for we'uns. Hanson, first man up, slammed one into center for two sacks. But he didn't know how to run bases and he very accommodatingly allowed himself to be caught off second, thereby relieving the nerve-racking situation. The next two Elgin batters went out in order, although it required quite some clever catch by Art Whitebread to get Pitcher Voss for the third out.

Stars Stage Rally.

And then the Stars changed their tactics, double-crossed the visitors and copped the game. Art Whitebread laid a pretty hunt down the third base line and his speed on the runway got him to the initial corner ahead of the pill. Pretty good start, and much enthusiasm on the part of the fans. Larkin wriggled his club around as if he was going to puncture the gas tank. But he didn't. He also and likewise bunted between the pitcher and third. Voss got the ball all right, but not in time to get Whitebread at second. So he threw with much steam to first and Mr. Hamelster, who played that corner for the visitors, dropped the ball with great talent. Joey Keenan slammed a hard one at second and, although he was caught at first, the two aforesaid Dixon young men advanced a base. Heresfield skied out to first — and there's the situation: Men on third and second, two out, the last half of the ninth and the score a tie. As P. O. Sullivan would say: "It was a nerve renovating situation."

Victory is Ours.

Mr. Smith, a new member of the Stars, who had performed very creditably during the hostilities, approached the rubber and in a most pleasing manner slammed one to the greatest spot on earth, that difficult place midway between short second and center. It was safe and Whitebread came home with the winning run. Larkin ran his head off, too, and crossed the pan, not thinking, of course, that the game had terminated when Whitebread's pretty little foot had touched that home plate, the corners of which Umpire Hogan had such a hard time locating.

A Good Game.

On the dead, Marie, it was a great game. Neither side scored until the fifth, when the Stars took the lead, when, with one down Heresfield and Smith singled in succession and Jet Whitebread drew a pass, filling the cushions. Lightner rolled a hard one to second and the squeeze worked, for, though Lightner was thrown out at first Heresfield came across nobly with the first run. Charlie Keenan ended the inning by lifting a long one to left.

Tied Up.

Elgin tied her up in the seventh. Hogan passed Johnson when the ball rolled over his foot and Hanson let loose a hit. With the stage set for a double Cummings took care of Lusthoff's grounder, but he stood still with the ball and the sacks were filled. Keenan struck out his opponent, Voss, in an accomplished manner, but followed by passing Hitzman,

BIBLE CONFERENCE OPENED THIS A. M.

ELEVENTH ANNUAL SESSION IS OPENED WITH INTEREST-ING ADDRESS.

The eleventh annual bible conference in connection with Rock River Assembly opened this morning at 10 o'clock with a good attendance and several interesting addresses. Harry B. Gerhardt, layman's secretary of the missionary movement in the Central synod, was unable to be present and his place was taken by Dr. C. Huber of Richmond, Ind., who delivered an excellent address on "Three Ways of Studying the Bible." Dr. Huber is authority on the bible. He is a close student of the book and of course his address was a masterpiece on the subject.

God's word may be studied by three methods: The scientific method, the aesthetic method and the religious method. The latter was emphasized by Dr. Huber. More people are better able to study the bible from the last method.

At 10 a. m. tomorrow Mr. Gerhardt will discuss the Lay Movements of the Church.

Prof. Bauslin's Address.

At 11 a. m. Prof. Bauslin delivered an address on "The Coming Quarto Centennial of the Lutheran Reformation—What It Should Mean to Us." He is authority on history, especially of the church, and his address was listened to with interest by more than 100 persons.

The speaker declared that the great movements in the history of mankind since the introduction of christianity into the world were:

1. Crusades.
2. Invasion of the Barbarians.
3. Protestant revolution and reformation under the leadership of Martin Luther.
4. French Revolution.

The third great movement was the topic of the speaker's address and no better or more eloquent tribute was ever paid Luther on the Assembly grounds.

Tuesday Forenoon.

Tuesday at 11 a. m. the "Problems of the Country Church" will be discussed by Rev. R. J. White, home mission secretary of the East Ohio synod.

Rev. Allen Becker will address the conference at 11 a. m. Wednesday on the subject of "The Titanic Disaster and Its Lessons." This will be an interesting lecture.

Girls Will Meet.

The Girls' club will meet at the club tent Wednesday at 10 a. m. for the first time. It is expected that the girls will be on hand to learn plans for the club.

Twilight Meeting.

The twilight meeting for young women will be held this evening at 7:15 and Miss Lyday will be pleased to have a large number of young women with her. A satisfactory meeting was held Saturday evening.

Mr. Devine stated, however, that he is a candidate for the Dixon postmastership and will continue so until it is decided.

BATTED BALL KNOCKS CARPENTER HUBER OUT

DIXON PITCHER RENDERED UN-
CONSCIOUS BY BLOW IN FORE-HEAD SUNDAY.

Carpenter Huber, the clever Dixon pitcher, was knocked unconscious by a batted ball at Peru yesterday in the seventh inning of a game between Peru and Mendota, in which Carp was working for Mendota. At the time of the mishap Mendota led, 3 to 1, and Huber was holding Peru's heavy sluggers helpless when a batted ball coming on a line hit him full in the forehead. He was, of course, unable to finish the game and Peru came from behind against Waldorf, who took Huber's place and won, 5 to 3.

DEKALB ROAD MAN TO ATTEND MEETING

J. W. CORKINGS OF DEKALB TO MEET WITH LEE COUNTY SUPERVISORS.

J. W. Corkings of DeKalb, president of the Illinois branch of Transcontinental Highway association, has written W. W. Gilbert, vice president of the Lee county association, that he will be here Wednesday to attend a special meeting of the board of supervisors, which will be held to decide upon the county's action in relation to the Tice bill, which provides for state aid in every county.

Mr. Corkings, who will also try to induce S. E. Trade, DeKalb, framer of the Tice bill, to attend the meeting and the gentlemen will put before the board their plan for making a great boulevard from Chicago to Clinton.

In his letter Mr. Corkings states that Cook, DuPage, Kane and DeKalb county supervisors have mapped the transcontinental route for rebuilding and he will attend a meeting of Ogle county supervisors tomorrow to secure their aid on the route through that county. Ogle, Lee and Whiteside counties are the only ones in which aid has not been given the ocean-ocean route. The president of the division continues, "It looks like one grand boulevard of either cement or brick from Chicago to the Mississippi river."

Maps showing the work done and work that is necessary, will be shown the Lee supervisors when they meet Wednesday is the special meeting that has been called and it is confidently expected by the local promoters of the highway that Lee county officials will not take a back seat in the matter.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Michael Whalen, motorman on an S. D. & E. car, had a narrow escape from injury Sunday evening when, as he alighted from his car to throw the block at the north end of the bridge, an automobile driven by S. W. Goldman of Ashton brushed by him, striking him on the elbow and leg. Fortunately the conductor did not step directly in front of the machine or his injuries would doubtless have been serious.

HARD LUCK STORY.

A tragic end of a pleasure trip attended that which Charles Andrus took Sunday, for while in swimming he lost his false teeth. Fortunately his companions had some nice soft cheese of which he made his dinner, but the loss of his incisors has made it necessary for him to carry his pipe in his hand since the tragedy.

BUILDING FOR PUBLIC USE

NEW LAW GIVES CITIES RIGHT TO BUILD AND MAINTAIN COLISEUMS

FOR AMUSEMENT PURPOSES

Affirmative Vote of People Will Give City Power to Erect and Maintain Hall

At the last session of the state legislature, a bill was passed, giving cities the right to erect assembly halls or coliseums for public use.

This new law is a large step forward in the progressive movement. It allows any city or village having a population of less than 500,000 to establish and maintain a public building for general educational and amusement purposes of the inhabitants of a city or village. To secure such an institution a petition of one hundred legal voters or more, should be addressed to the city council or board of directors, asking for an annual tax for the purposes of buying the ground and erecting the building. Thereupon the city council or board of directors must submit the question to the people at the next annual election and the voters, including the women, have the power to decide upon the proposition. If the election shall be in the affirmative, it becomes the duty of the county to levy a tax of three mills on the dollar for the establishment of the community house or coliseum, and thereafter to levy one mill on the dollar for the maintenance of the building.

The Board of Directors

Upon a vote in the affirmative, it shall be the duty of the mayor to appoint a board of directors of three persons, and under the law the board of directors may purchase or lease real estate and erect the building, borrow money and have general supervision and care of the property. The community house when built, shall be for the free use and benefit of the inhabitants of the city and for free lectures, concerts, public assemblies and free amusements and entertainments. The board has power to make special arrangements with private parties for the use of the building or a portion and upon such terms as the board may see fit.

This law contemplates that the city shall operate a place of public amusement. This would include billiards, dances, bowling alleys, as well as banquets, sewing circles or public lectures.

For General Use

In most cities the various lodges find it difficult to obtain rooms for their lodge meetings, and it would seem that a building might contain appropriate quarters which could be leased to such institutions. Such a building should have committee rooms where the citizens of the town who are interested in the various branches of city service might meet. Such a building should contain a stage for private theatricals, high school entertainments, graduating exercises and other public gatherings more or less intimately connected with the affairs of the city or village.

In other words, this would be the social center of the community and the spirit of the institution should be for the general welfare of all the people. The expense of maintaining such a building would be comparatively slight, and under efficient management should be nearly, if not entirely self-supporting.

Yorkshire Pudding.

Yolks of three eggs, whites of two; beat well together; add one pint of milk and one tablespoonful of flour. Beat well. Let stand 15 minutes and pour in flat baking pan or deep pie plate. Bake in very hot oven about 20 minutes. Cut in large dice and serve around platter with roast beef.

Preventing Umbrella Ribs Rusting.

If you want your umbrella to last double the usual time, make it a rule to pour a few drops of oil into the top notch about once a month. This prevents the ends of the ribs from rusting, and so prolongs the life of the umbrella.

Rice Pancakes.

Sift together one pint of flour, one teaspoonful sugar, a saltspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of a half of baking powder sifted with the flour. Beat one egg thoroughly and stir it into a cup and a quarter of milk. Turn this on two cupfuls of cold boiled rice and beat with a fork until the rice is free from lumps. Add to the prepared flour and beat to a smooth batter. Have the griddle well heated and greased and cook the batter in large, thin cakes, browning nicely on both sides. Serve with maple sirup, honey or thick fruit sirup.

labors. He will need a—hum—bed and some—ha—victuals."

Dr. Griggs was scheduled to arrive on the eleven o'clock train the next morning. When the hired man had harnessed the pony to the buggy Matilda Snaith knocked at her husband's door.

"Are you coming, Alfred?" she called; but there was no answer. She tapped more loudly; at last, still encountering no response, she placed her ear to the key-hole and listened. The silence within was almost uncannily profound.

"Dear Alfred," she mused. "He is so absorbed in his work—well, I'll drive down to meet Doctor Griggs alone. He will understand—he knows Alfred."

And, picturing her clever husband absorbed in his work, so that he was unconscious of all external stimuli, she drove down to the station, and drove back an hour later, with the learned Doctor Griggs at her side—a tall, spare man with a black, bushy beard, his six feet of longitude with difficulty stowed away in the vehicle.

They got out of the buggy, entered the house, and ascended the stairs. Outside her husband's door Matilda Snaith paused irresolute.

"It is hard to arouse him, doctor, when he is engaged in his work," she said. "Perhaps you had better knock; your knuckles are stronger."

Doctor Griggs stepped forward and beat a tattoo upon the door. "It's I, professor," he called. "Open! Open. I say! Snaith! Snaith! Snaith!"

"Perhaps he has met with an accident," said Mrs. Snaith uneasily. "O, if he has taken too much of the anesthetic! We must arouse him!"

"I fear, madam, that we shall have to break down the door," said Doctor Griggs, after skinning his knuckles vainly upon the panels. He looked at Mrs. Snaith inquiringly, and then, exerting all his strength, sent the door flying inward.

Professor Snaith lay unconscious.

NEURALGIA.

That neuralgia, neuritis or nerve pains are but the cry of the nerves for pure blood may or may not convey to you a satisfactory answer to the question, What is neuralgia? The pains result not only from an impoverished condition of the blood, but from impurities that may gain access to the system. In either event there is a fault or a deficiency in the blood, and this gives rise to the question as to THE CAUSE OF THE DEFICIENCY in the blood. This last question is often a perplexing one and usually calls for much careful and painstaking research. In the meantime the patient is anxious for relief immediately and is often tempted to the use of morphine or other harmful sedatives. This is wrong and often dangerous.

Since I am usually able to control these pains by the use of the high frequency light and other electrical modalities while I am cleansing the system and repairing the nerve strength.

I invite all who are afflicted to give me a call.

I do all kinds of office work; treating to the best of my ability and with more than ordinary office facilities, eye, ear, nose and throat troubles, stomach, liver, kidney and skin "is-eases," also diseases of men and women, rheumatism, etc., etc. If afflicted I invite your early patronage.

upon the floor.

"He's dead!" cried his wife in terror. She clasped her hands appealingly. "O doctor, save him!"

Doctor Griggs stooped over the unconscious man. He was breathing stertorously. Beside him lay an emptied vial. Doctor Griggs picked it up and sniffed at it. Then he turned to the lady, smiling.

"Not dead, but sleeping," he said softly. "Madam, your distinguished husband has invented blackberry brandy."

Build Ark for New Deluge.

Panama, July 28.—Sagundo Sanchez, a native of Penonome, an interior town, has proclaimed himself the Messiah. He predicts the destruction of the world soon by a deluge. Some of his eighty adherents are building an ark. Others are collecting pairs of animals of all species found in this region. His followers also have armed themselves. In view of this fact the government is taking steps to avert possible trouble.

Macaroni and Ham.

Break a half a pound of macaroni into lengths; boil it tender in hot salted water. Make a white sauce of a tablespoon each of butter and flour, and a cupful of milk, put into this the macaroni and a cupful of cold boiled ham chopped fine and seasoned with a pinch of dry mustard and a little red pepper. Add a beaten egg and turn the mixture into a buttered pudding dish. Strew with bread crumbs and grated cheese over the top and bake, covered, for half an hour, then uncover and brown.

ON HER KITCHEN STOVE

It is interesting to note that the most successful remedy for woman's ills was originally prepared nearly forty years ago by Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., by steeping roots and herbs on her kitchen stove and supplied to friends and neighbors without cost. Its fame spread; the demand grew, until now many tons of roots and herbs are used each year in order to supply this famous remedy which has proved such a marvelous success in controlling diseases of women. Merit alone could have stood this test of time.

Corn and Tomato With Cheese.

Cook a sliced onion for five minutes in a tablespoonful of butter; remove the onion, put in a heaping cupful of grated cheese, and stir until this is melted. Have ready a cupful of drained and chopped canned corn and half a cupful of thick stewed tomato, free from lumps and sweetened with a teaspoonful of white sugar. Put this with the cheese, stir well, and when all are heated, add slowly the beaten yolks of two eggs. Cook one minute, season with a teaspoonful of salt and a pinch of cayenne, and serve on buttered toast.

Grandma's Pumpkin Pie.

Mix one cup each of milk and dry steamed pumpkin, half a cup of sugar, two tablespoons each of molasses and melted butter, one tablespoon of ginger, two eggs slightly beaten, one teaspoon of cinnamon, half a teaspoon of salt. Pour into a pastry lined dish and bake about 45 minutes. When baking cake dust the greased pan with flour and the cake will never stick.

When making custard pie sprinkle your spice on the pastry lined pan and you will not find it on top.

Wax of Candles.

If the wax from the candles runs down on to the candlestick itself it is often difficult to clean off, especially if the candlestick is metal. As simple a way to do this as any is to set them rest on many thicknesses of newspaper; the heat melts the wax, and the paper will absorb it all. When the wax is quite melted, wipe off with fresh newspaper before trying to polish the candlesticks.

Mutton Chops Stewed in Milk.

Free the chops from fat and put into a saucepan, cover with milk and an onion cut fine and simmer slowly two hours. Season with pepper and salt and thicken with a little flour.

IT'S A SECRET

Marion opened the front door about an inch and beckoned Isabel with a forefinger tingling with mystery.

"Isabel," she whispered in a tone that was easily heard across the street, "come on in. I've got something to show you."

"It's upstairs in my room," she whispered hissing.

The two clambered up the stairs. "There don't a soul know a thing about it but me," whispered Marion.

"Oh, ain't it lovely!" gasped Isabel. They bumped on up the stairs. Then Marion led the way into her own little chamber and closed the door mysteriously.

"Cross your heart, hope you may die, if you ever tell!" She fixed Isabel with a solemn gaze.

"Oh, Marion, they won't never anything make me tell," she declared, clasping her little hands in a transport of joy. Then her face fell. "Of course, unless mother asks me about it," she added. It was a very wistful but dutiful pair of eyes that looked into Marion's.

Marion hesitated. "Well, of course, I mean everybody kept your mother, and not her unless she asks you. It ain't anything she'd care about your knowing. It's just that I want to surprise people."

She dived under the bed and drew out a box. Then she seated herself in her little armchair and Isabel squatted in front of her in rapt admiration.

"You wouldn't ever guess, Isabel," went on Marion, condescendingly, after a moment, during which Isabel watched her with bated breath, "cause you're so kind of stupid, so I'll have to tell you."

"Wouldn't you be just surprised to pieces, Isabel, if I should tell you I was writing a book?"

Isabel nodded, shutting her mouth for a moment as though to swallow this exciting information. "Oh," she said, "a book!" Then she opened her mouth again.

"Yes," said Marion, hastily unfolding papers and spreading them out on her lap. "A pink book, or maybe a blue one! I haven't decided which yet. With the picture of a lovely lady on it! And I'm going to read it to you!"

Isabel's sigh was replete with adulation.

"It isn't finished yet," Marion went on, "but I'll read what I've written." She cleared her throat majestically and began:

"Once upon a time there was a little boy and his mother made him a blue cap to wear."

Isabel gave a chirp, delighted to find something familiar in this high pressure, artistic atmosphere. "Just like Red Riding Hood," she squealed.

Marion frowned. "No, it ain't a bit like Red Riding Hood," she said, severely. "Red Riding Hood was a girl and she had a red hood, and this is a boy and he has a blue cap, and if you interrupt, Isabel, I won't read you another word."

Isabel drooped her pretty head, disheartened by her failure properly to appreciate the intellectual feast.

"Oh," she said, dismally, "I didn't mean to make you mad, Marion."

"I'm not mad," returned Marion, magnanimously. "But when I get to thinking it makes me nervous if people talk to me. Well, I'll read you the rest: 'One day this little boy's mother gave him a little box and it had in it some cookies and some candy and some bananas.' You see, Isabel, it isn't really a bit like Red Riding Hood, because she had a basket with pats of butter in it. Then his mother said to the little boy, 'Now you take this box to your Uncle Jack, who lives all by himself in the woods, and you give it to him, and give him my love.' So the little boy when he came to the cottage in the woods went up and knocked at the door."

"I should think he wouldn't 'a' had to knock at the door when it was his own uncle."

In her interest Isabel forgot instructions and, unsolicited, assumed the thankful role of critic, for which she was promptly rebuked by a withering glance.

"He went up and knocked at the door," resumed Marion, disdaining to call attention by words to this lapse on Isabel's part, "because he was a polite little boy and always knocked at the door, whether people were his own uncle or not. And so he went inside and there were three chairs sitting in the parlor."

Isabel, carried away with excitement, forgot all caution and clapped her hands delightedly. "It's the Three Bears!" she cried joyously.

In an instant her happiness was dispelled. Marion very deliberately laid the papers down on her lap, smoothed them out and then returned them to the box.

"You're not very polite," she said in a well modulated voice, "when you tell people their stories are like other stories, when they're not a bit, especially when people have asked you not to talk while they're reading to you; so I guess I won't read to you any more."

After a moment's silence a gentle little sob made her look up in time to see a big tear roll down Isabel's peachy cheek. Marion leaned over and gave her a forgiving pat.

"Don't cry, Isabel," she cooed. "You know you can't help being stupid. And, besides," she added, generously, "there isn't any more now, anyway. I didn't have the right kind of paper to finish it on, so I had to quit."

Her Forgetfulness

"Lead me to a memory cure," began the girl, who likes to talk. "Buy me a ticket for a full course, and if there are any extras tack them on! I need assistance of that kind and if I don't get it pretty soon I'll be a social outcast!"

"It is perfectly ridiculous that people attach such importance to one's having one's mind on things! When life is so short what difference can it make in the history of a hundred years or so whether you do or do not forget to attend to something you had in a moment of aberration said you would? I like breadth of view, myself."

"If Joseph Stevens only had had breadth of view he would not now be considering me with lofty disdain instead of bestowing upon me the devoted admiration which once was my portion from him. Taking it all in all, I succeeded last week in getting myself cordially hated by more persons than I had before realized were on my list of acquaintances."

"It seemed so good to have an evening with nothing to do when Wednesday came that I resolved to enjoy it thoroughly, for I had had a rather strenuous social career for some time. So after dinner I went upstairs and made myself ready for bed. I rubbed cold cream into my haggard countenance for ten minutes and did my hair up on curlers, because it had seen so much of the hot iron that it needed a rest. Just as I was turning out the light, the doorbell rang."

"Presently mother came upstairs and into my room with a bewildered countenance. She blinked at my costume and my shiny face."

"Dear me!" she murmured. "This is most peculiar of you! Joseph Stevens is downstairs."

"Send him away," I said, sleepily. "Tell him I have three headaches and feel another coming on!"

"I will try to excuse you properly," mother said with dignity. But she came back almost immediately. "He insists that he has an engagement to take you to the theater this evening!"

"I just regarded mother sternly. When I am guilty of anything serious I find it is a great moral bracer to act as if the other person were at fault. 'You can see for yourself,' I told her, 'that I can't go to the theater with my hair done like this and about a pound of cold cream on my face. I think it most annoying of Joseph to keep such an inopportune engagement! You'll have to make a thoroughly good explanation, mother, dear, and get me out of it gracefully!'"

"Mother is sometimes most hard-hearted. 'I shall tell him,' she announced uncompromisingly, 'that you forgot all about it!'"

"And she did. I've been writing contrite notes to Joseph ever since, but he seems to think that he is injured."

"The next day I met Mary Miller downtown shopping and we had tea together. I devoted fifteen minutes to telling her about the card party John Pool had asked me to on the 28th and how flattered I was to have him pick me out and what I was going to wear and how he had asked me if I preferred violets. When I got through she coughed in an odd way."

"I suppose," she murmured, "a little thing like the dinner at my house on the 28th which you accepted last week couldn't be expected to remain in your memory! Sometimes it is convenient to forget things."

"Nothing I could say in my horror served to convince her that I hadn't slighted her deliberately. Mary is so touchy. She'll never speak to me again, I suppose. I was so upset over it that I got home before I remembered that I had a five o'clock appointment with the dressmaker. So I didn't get my spangled dress in time for Sally's dance! I had to wear the pink one that simply kills the pink dress Sally wore and I had promised her not to wear mine. Now she thinks I'm a deceitful cat and wanted to spoil her looks."

"The worst, however, was when six girls arrived Saturday for luncheon and I hadn't remembered inviting them until they walked in on me. The cook was sick and mother and I were eating handmade sandwiches in the pantry at the time. I really was a bit confused. Leaving mother speechless, I marched all six of those girls around the corner to a little home restaurant and gave them a 35-cent table d'hôte luncheon. Of course I'll have them at home again soon to make up for it, but most of them seemed annoyed at taking all their best clothes into a cheap cafe. I think they were lucky to get anything to eat at all!"

"It seems that when we left the restaurant I forgot to pay the check, for that evening, while the minister and his wife were calling, the proprietor's son rang the bell and in a loud and distinct tone, which penetrated easily to the living room, delivered his opinion of persons who tried to sneak out of paying for what they ate."

"I'm not at all popular with my family just now in consequence of my recent misdeeds and I have very few friends left. I think Venus must have been passing the moon or something, but as I've forgotten most of my astronomy I can't be sure."

"Still, the most ordinary, stupid people can remember things--it strikes me as being a mark of distinction to forget 'em!"

Causes Many Heart Throbs and Disappointments Before Mistake Is Corrected.

By HELEN DISNEY.

As Jack crossed the office on his way to his desk, his eyes dwelt tenderly on Madge's nimble fingers as they traced what he felt sure was a note to him. Thinking to surprise her, he drew nearer, and suddenly the large writing on the sheet seemed to rise up and assail his eyes. With hurt horror he read:

"Dearest Ted:—

"Of course I love you. Why doubt me? As long as I live, I'm yours."

He waited to read no further, but fled to the stockroom, where hidden behind the bales and boxes, he fought out his trouble and decided upon a course of action.

"My little Madge, whom I trusted with my whole soul," he groaned. Her falsehood seemed impossible.

Who this fellow Ted was he did not know. It was enough that the girl he loved, and who had promised to marry him, was writing such a letter to another man.

At last he clenched his hands, and setting his teeth, went into the private office of the manager. Six weeks ago, he had been offered a position on the road, one that would pay him a much better salary, and had refused, not wanting to leave Madge. Now he was glad to go, and immediately, too. With in two hours of his reading the beginning of that fateful note, he was on the train to take up the work of one of the commercial travelers who had suddenly been taken sick.

Jack did not stop to say good-bye to Madge, nor did he write her, for he felt that the less said the better.

"Perhaps if I get away, this hurt will stop," he told himself; but although he kept busy and in his labors

"I saw you here," she whispered, "and came here to sit by you."

"Darling! How, though, did they get that letter? I saw you write it," he confessed, "though not intentional."

"I wrote the scenario of the photo-play," she said with proper pride. They forgot the audience, sitting there together again in the happiness of their love, and he bent over and whispered:

"We'll be married tomorrow so you can go out on the road with me." Madge nodded happily. "Of course, for as long as I live, I'm yours," she murmured, and this time the words carried a joyous message to him.

With Hurt Horror He Read.

turned night into day, sending back so much business that the firm believed they had secured the model salesman, he could not forget Madge or her thousand and one appealing ways. It was all the harder because she kept on writing to him, in the same, clear, flowing hand that had penned the fateful confession of her love for another, begging him to let her know the reason for his continued silence.

Tom, his chum, wrote him that Madge looked ill.

"She's awfully close," Tom went on. "Won't give us a squint at your letters, though I know she gets one per, if not often. To write her a love song that often, with all the business you're sending in, you can't be hitting the feathers at all. Write her to be less close, for we're all agog to know how you are wrestling orders from the populace as you are. But, honest, boy, Madge is looking badly. I think she's crying all night long. Better blow in and try a little consolation, or some other else may. I'd like to, but I'm true blue where my friends are concerned, and so I won't ring in any of the comfort dope until I'm sure you're going to stay away forever and a day; but in case you do—well, I'll not let the grass grow under my feet. Madge is a dear girl."

Jack groaned as he read the friendly words, and knew that in between the lines was a hint that all was not well.

Things looked black to him, although he had made such a success in a business way that the office sent for him to come home and make a contract with the firm, and although he would have rather remained away forever, Jack obeyed, and once more found himself in the same city with Madge.

Being a salesman now, he managed to have his interview with the manager without going out among his old associates, and so avoided Madge, although a sight of her sunny hair through the open doorway turned him sick at heart. As soon as matters were settled he made his escape, although he knew that on the morrow he would have to meet the others, Madge among them, and receive their congratulations.

His business outlook was extremely bright, much better than he had dared to dream of for years to come, and yet it was a very heavy heart that he carried with him into the little motion picture theater, where he sought a few moments of relaxation later on in the evening. He and Madge had often gone there in the days when he believed in her, and it was with the hope of seeing her at a distance, and if possible discovering the identity of the hated Ted, that he went.

Weakly he made his way to the corner seat in the box where they had always sat. The house was lighted up, and he was conspicuous as he sat there, but he did not pay any attention to the audience after a sweeping glance over it had told him that Madge was not there.

Without interest, he gazed at a thrilling Indian story, not caring in the least if every white settler on the film was wiped out by the bloodthirsty savages. What was the misery of people long ago gone, if indeed they ever existed, to him, deprived of his faith in his love?

Listlessly he followed the story of the next film. There was the usual quarrel between two lovers, although he reflected bitterly that neither had his cause. Suddenly he straightened up. The lover received a letter from the girl with whom he had quarreled, and it was photographed on the film.

"Dearest Ted:—

"Of course I love you. Why doubt me? As long as I live, I'm yours."

As on a former occasion, Jack stopped to read no further. He recognized the clear, flowing hand. It was Madge's penmanship, that he knew, but he also understood that it was never written to a living person. The thought flamed through him that there must be some heart-healing explanation. Realizing how his cruelty must have hurt her, he turned to leave, when in the seat by his side where she had sat so often was—Madge!

Instinctively his hand reached for hers, and in the tender pressure given and returned everything was forgotten and forgiven.

"I saw you here," she whispered, "and came here to sit by you."

"Darling! How, though, did they get that letter? I saw you write it," he confessed, "though not intentional."

"I wrote the scenario of the photo-play," she said with proper pride. They forgot the audience, sitting there together again in the happiness of their love, and he bent over and whispered:

"We'll be married tomorrow so you can go out on the road with me." Madge nodded happily. "Of course, for as long as I live, I'm yours," she murmured, and this time the words carried a joyous message to him.

RECIPES IN MIXTURES

SOMETHING HERE TO SUIT ALL VARIETIES OF TASTE.

Marshmallow May Always Be Employed When a Sweet Confection Is Desired—Some Advice as to Its Use.

Dressing—Warm about half a gallon of simple sirup and beat in one 25-cent package of marshmallows. This can be made into many styles, using chopped nuts and fresh fruits to mix in the dressing.

Dressing No. 2.—Put the contents of 10-cent package of marshmallows in a double boiler and let dissolve over a moderate fire. Take half pint of granulated sugar and three tablespoons of boiling water, cook until it threads from the spoon, beat slowly into the white of two eggs, then add the marshmallows while the frosting is hot.

Frosting—Boil three-quarters of a cup of granulated sugar and one-fourth of a cup of milk without stirring for six minutes or until the sirup threads. Cook and stir one 10-cent package of marshmallows and two tablespoons of water until smooth. Put the two mixtures together and beat until thick enough to spread, after flavoring to taste.

Dessert.—Lay slices of angel food cake on small plate. Spread over these a mixture made of one 25-cent package of marshmallows, put into a little and set over a slow fire to melt. Whip cream, to which add vanilla to suit taste. Spread this on marshmallows and then another layer of cake and marshmallows and finish with cream. Set aside for one hour before serving.

Lemon Dessert.—Dissolve one package lemon flavor gelatin in one pint of boiling water. Just as it begins to stiffen drop contents of one 10-cent package of marshmallows into the gelatin. Pour into a mold and when firm decorate with marshmallows and serve with whipped cream.

Combination Dessert.—Take one ten-cent package, one cup of pineapple, half a cup of walnuts (chopped), one cup cream (whipped). Mix pineapple, walnuts and marshmallows together and add whipped cream.

Orange Dessert.—Cut contents of 10-cent package of marshmallows in quarters with scissors. Soak in juice three oranges two hours, then add whipped cream at top.

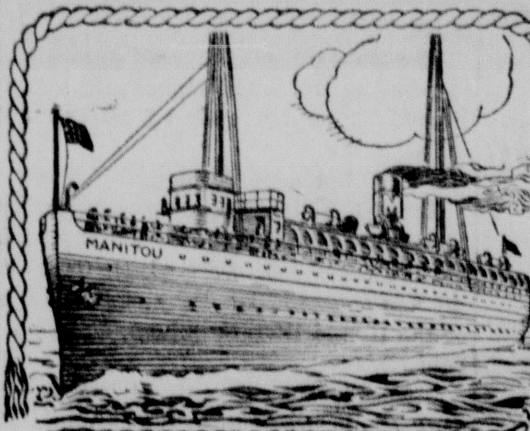

Delight.—Cut up one 25-cent package of marshmallows. Whip half a pint of cream, chop one cup English walnut meats, or put in candied cherries. Flavor with rum. Mix marshmallows and nuts or the cherries. Pour over them beaten cream. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Are You Weak, Nervous, Diseased?

FREE—Consolation, Examination, and One Week's Trial Treatment.

DR. R. S. PIPER SAYS

You who have been humbugged by "Old Treatment," and who have found yourself growing older and worse; YOU who have given up in despair, saying, "I am doomed, there is no hope for me," to you he says, who are sinking into an early grave or drifting upon the shoreless sea of sickness and misfortune, UP and SAVE YOURSELF! There is HOPE PERHAPS A CURE.

COME FRIDAY, AUGUST 1

And he will treat you FREE FOR ONE WEEK, if you desire, to prove what he can do. He has spent thousands of dollars to develop his treatment, and he knows what it will do. Don't experiment elsewhere. Try his treatment FREE, and be convinced that he can give you results.

He Has Restored Thousands to Perfect Health and Strength

HE WANTS THE WORST CASES—the so-called incurable cases—the hopeless (?) cases in order to prove what his successful treatment will do. Ninety-nine per cent of his cures are performed in cases which have been pronounced incurable, and who have tried so many other treatments and taken so much medicine that they have become completely discouraged. These have come to Dr. R. S. Piper and have found health and happiness. Why not let him cure you?

DISEASES OF MEN—There are no diseases so destructive to the health, happiness and prosperity of man as Lost Vitality, Blood Poison, Syphilis, Stricture, Varicocele, Losses, Discharges, Urinary Troubles and other diseases from which men alone suffer. Such diseases rarely cause death, but they produce a condition of mental and bodily suffering that is worse than death. There are no diseases about which physicians in general know so little and treat so carelessly.

Because the subject is so delicate—and frequently so disagreeable—competent physicians are loath to handle it, and the same delicacy on the part of many patients causes their treatment to be neglected. Such a feeling may, perhaps, be natural, but there is really no cause for it. Ignorance, not vice, is most often the real cause of such diseases. Therefore do not neglect yourself by reason of false modesty. These afflictions are as legitimate a branch of medicine as diseases of the Heart, Lungs or Stomach. Seek proper means of relief at once, for neglect is fatal.

ALL DISEASES—All curable afflictions can be cured by Dr. Piper's treatment—many that others consider incurable—no matter how many remedies you have vainly tried—no matter how many other doctors have failed. Curing DESPERATE CHRONIC CASES is Dr. Piper's specialty. ARE YOU SUFFERING from belching of gas or food from the stomach, pain or distress in the stomach, breaking out on the skin, constipation, creepy or numb sensations in the limbs, the effects of an old illness, despondency, deep seated blood diseases, melancholia, loss of ambition, loss of vital energy, wasting diseases, epilepsy, fits, asthma, eczema, gall bladder trouble, varicocele, early abuses, headache, pain in the back or the side, dizziness, rheumatism, acute infections, auto-intoxication, nervous prostration, locomotor ataxia, dyspepsia, biliousness, heart disease, kidney and bladder disease, lung trouble, catarrh of the head, diseased eyes, deranged vision, female diseases, nervous exhaustion or any evidence of breaking down in MAN or WOMAN?

Thousands have been cured in the past—many just like your case. Won't you let him cure you? A friendly call may save you future suffering; it has made life anew to thousands who have been pronounced beyond help.

NOTICE—Dr. R. S. Piper will be at the Nachusa Hotel, Dixon, for One Day Only forcing in the tying run.

A little somnambulism on the part of Hanson saved our pork chops a minute later, for that worthy sleeper, perched carefully on third, made absolutely no attempt to score on Burgeson's long fly to center, thereby swelling Charlie Larkin in. He didn't know his arm had such a reputation. The chance was gone though for Farney forced Lusthoff at third and the danger was past.

The Finish.

Neither side scored in the eighth, and ten came the happy festivities of the ninth. In words and figures the story of the game is told as follows to-wit, i. e.:

Notes of the Game.

Considerable discussion arose as to whether both of Dixon's runners, Whitebread and Larkin, scored in the ninth inning. The problem is unquestionably settled in the rules. Section 2 of rule 22 says a regulation game must continue nine innings "provided however, that the game shall terminate if the side last at bat in the ninth inning scores the winning run before the third man is out."

Joey Keenan had hard luck. He stepped to the plate four times, and the first three times hit easy grounders right at the first baseman, being put out at first unassisted each time. His last attempt was a hard one to second, on which he was thrown out but which advanced two runners and helped in the ninth inning rally.

A. Whitebread, Lightner and Lusthoff each pulled some dandy catches in the field, while Joey Keenan pulled several hard ones out of the air.

Charlie Keenan had a peculiar assist on Hitzman's slam in the third. Charlie reached for the ball, which was going some, but succeeded only in knocking it down and into Cummings' mitt.

FEATURE PICTURE AT FAMILY

St. George and the Dragon, a feature picture in three reels, will be shown at the Family theatre tonight. It is the highest priced film ever brought to Dixon.

SUNDAY WAS BIG DAY AT ASSEMBLY

markable bible character according to Dr. Wedderspoon was the fact that Saul did not return to God. During the entire sermon-lecture the speaker gave evidence of a profound student of the Holy Writ. He is indeed a scholar and kept the close attention of his audience from start to finish.

The management made no mistake in securing Dr. Wedderspoon. He left a good impression with a most critical audience.

Splendid Sermon.

Several hundred people attended services in the auditorium Sunday a. m. The sermon by Prof. D. H. Bauslin was splendid. Dr. Bauslin is dean of the Hanna Divinity school, Springfield, O.

Miss Florence Trouth of Sterling sang a solo previous to the sermon.

Sunday School.

Over 150 attended the Assembly Sunday school, in charge of General Superintendent Dr. L. A. Beard of Polo. The teachers were in their places on time.

Orchestra Pleased.

The Balalaika orchestra, which played excellent concerts Saturday, pleased thousands at their two concerts Sunday.

The auditorium was nearly filled Saturday evening and Sunday evening when these musicians were the attraction.

Good Platform Manager.

It would be well to state here that Dr. Derr of Lena, the new platform manager, is making good. He executes his duties with care and dispatch.

Next Sunday ex-Gov. Hanly of Indiana will deliver his famous lecture, "The Personality of Christ." Mr. Hanly needs no introduction to Dixon's people, many having heard him, and all praising him as a platform lecturer.

Bailey and the Boys

Saturday afternoon immediately after address by Gov. Eberhart Secretary Bailey, who has charge of the Boys' Club, gathered twenty or more boys together in the park directly north of the Auditorium and perfected an organization. Bailey is the right man for the place. The boys know him and they believe in him; they have confidence in him and know he is doing something for them that will help them. During the Assembly Mr. Bailey will drill his boys in marching, games, etc. Games will be played for sport and some will be played leading up to the entertainment to be given Saturday night, August 9th.

The boys will take several hikes from Assembly park to Lowell park.

Girls' Club

Miss Gertrude Ione Hill of Dixon, who holds a splendid position in the Rockford schools, will not organize the girls' club until Monday, Aug. 4. She will be unable to reach Dixon before that date.

Albert Edward Wiggam

The lecture Tuesday afternoon will be delivered by Albert Edward Wiggam and his subject will be "Dollars and Sense." Mr. Edwards is known as "The Apostle of the Efficiency."

Dollars and Sense is a lecture that has done things. It has a history. It has been delivered 1000 times.

It has carried its author from a reporter on a police column to a permanent place in the Lyceum.

The public has paid many thousands of dollars for it.

It has sent many young men and women to college.

It is an hour and twenty minutes of eloquence and passionate pleading for the health, freedom, opportunity and efficiency of the American boy and girl with all they mean in the mighty "Promise of American Life."

Mr. Wiggam's lecture should be heard by every boy and girl in Dixon and many of the adults would be benefited by it.

Rounds Ladies' Orchestra.

Rounds Ladies' orchestra will furnish the music for Tuesday afternoon and evening. They will play a short concert at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and in the evening they will play a full concert. Preceding the concert Miss Elsie Reich of Chicago will give several readings.

Rounds Ladies' orchestra as a musical organization is worthy of consideration. It was organized in 1895 by Mr. Rounds, an enthusiastic musician and entertainer. It has seen the rise and fall of many similar organizations, but still climbs steadily upward, the very few gradual alterations makes it practically the same organization, with an unlimited repertoire it plays year after year return dates without repeating a number. They have played every big city in the United States and Canada, of over 200,000, made three trips from coast to coast and played in every state in the Union.

Dr. Cook Day.

This afternoon Mrs. John C. Hessler of Decatur gave an interesting talk on "The Building of the House; Its Woodwork."

Mrs. Hessler is a very interesting talker and handles her subjects well. She will be with the Round Table until and including Saturday, August 2nd.

Assembly Bible Hour.

One of the most interesting hours of the day at the Assembly is at 8 a. m. when the bible hour class convenes under the leadership of Dr. E. G. Howard of Richmond, Ind.

This morning nearly 50 persons were in Chautauqua hall and listened to an interesting address by Dr. Howard on "God's Original Workmanship in Man."

A WOMAN'S CHARGE TO WOMEN

Tomorrow the women of Dixon have an opportunity to exercise that power so long sought by women elsewhere. That women can vote has been proved. Further we know what we want and nothing will deter us from voting that way. Yes, a woman can make a decision and stick to it. You good men, just disabuse yourselves of any other idea. We are the women of today, not yesterday.

The home loving woman has not desired to vote until lately, but she must exercise that right and so she sees it. Her home will not be any the less well ordered. Since there are questions, vital questions, that we must help to settle now that the glorious state of Illinois has given us that power, let us get out in full force and vote, vote on the water question. It is a beginning and it means much to the city of Dixon.

Is there anything more discouraging than to spend time seriously considering a proposition and to have it received in a luke-warm sort of way by those who ought to be most interested?

ILLINOIS NEWS

Aurora—Some unknown brute who has a fancied grievance against A. M. Dunkle, a teaming contractor wreaked his vengeance on a dumb animal—one of Dunkle's horses last night. He poured carbolic acid over the horse's back and legs, burning it terribly.

Joliet—Because he cranked his automobile while it was in gear, Harry Lewis, a Joliet banker, was run over and seriously injured yesterday. Lewis was in a hurry to take a friend to the Union station and neglected to inspect his gears, and the machine not sparking the first few whirled of the crank, he opened the throttle wider, one of the friends put on the exhilarator to help matters, and now Lewis faces a two weeks hospital sentence.

Joliet—Thirty-five Joliet violators of laws which the state factory bureau enforces, were haled before State Factory Inspector Barney Cohen yesterday to explain the infractions of law which were unearthed by ten weeks inspection by William Ehn and Charles Ducray. As a result of the reports made, 20 firms will be prosecuted.

Waukegan—When he was preparing to leave Waukegan for his outing in northern Wisconsin, Lloyd Robillard had a premonition that he might never come back alive. So strong was the premonition that he picked these young men out as pallbearers in case he should be brought back a corpse: Al Mackey, Allie Payne, Dwight Morrow, Lyle Gourley, Otto Sarvella, Roy Jones, Lloyd's faithful bull dog which he took on the trip, and which was foundering in the water with him at the time he drowned, but which later swam ashore, refuses to leave the river bank near where Lloyd went down.

Mt. Auburn—A strong wind did what no resident of the village dared to do—remove the effigy of Fay D. Slate, editor of the Mt. Auburn Tribune, which has been hanging on the public square for several days. Slate is under bond for killing Dr. P. B. Windsor, mayor of Mt. Auburn, May 22. The figure appeared one morning between a bank and a drug store, but no open supporters of Slate ventured to cut it down.

Waukegan—The one bondsman has received approximately $600, his proportionate share of the defalcation, and that Fred Ames, Lake Co.'s absconding treasurer, has taken an oath to repay each bondsman the loss he suffered, was made known to a Waukegan attorney Thursday. From reports gathered Ames is in northwest Canada. He went there, it is said, after disposing of his holding in Florida. He is an active business man in northwest Canada, according to reports and is earning big money. He has settled down and is enjoying the respect of business associates. "Fred Ames will make good every cent. Not one of the twenty-three bondsmen will suffer in the end. He has money on hand to meet his debt to three bondsmen," said and has paid up one of their number," said the lawyer.

Elgin—Clarence Bean and William Gylleck, two Elgin boys still in their teens, arrived in Elgin Wednesday after an exciting twenty-four hours. Had it not been for a perfect alibi, both boys might now be lying in jail at Fulton, Ill., charged with robbing a bank. The two left Elgin Monday morning with the intention of "touring" the country. When the freight stopped at Fulton the cars were searched and the two Elgin boys yanked off. "You see the bank had been robbed," explained Bean, "and one of the fellows was supposed to have red hair." Bean's hair is fiery red. It was because of the color of his hair that the arrests were made.

ACTRESS DESIGNS HER TOMB

Sarah Bernhardt Is Busy Working on Monument.

Paris, July 28.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt is employing her vacation by carving a monument for the embellishment of her tomb, for which she has bought a desolate island off the coast of Brittany. She is working hard on a clay sketch of the complete conception with a young Breton woman as a model. The latter is sworn to silence and the design of the monument is kept a profound secret. It is said, however, by Mme. Bernhardt's friends, to be simple yet strangely moving in ideas. The tragedienne is reported to have said a short time ago that she had a horror of intrusting the creation of the monument to anybody else.

GOOD FARMING

Results Most Apparent During Unfavorable Seasons—Fine Results on the Allen Farm

Fairly good crops may be produced in any section of Illinois when the season is particularly favorable to that section, even though the best methods of crop production are not followed, but it is when unseasonable conditions prevail, that results of good farming are most apparent.

The beneficial results of good farm management are very apparent on the farm of Ralph Allen, near Delavan, in Tazewell county. Mr. Allen has adopted the Illinois system of permanent agriculture and each year he treats 40 acres of land with 1500 pounds per acre of raw rock phosphate. He practices a systematic rotation of corn, oats, wheat and clover. One 40 acres in wheat this year gives promise of 33 to 40 bushels per acre, as compared with untreated fields in the locality which will yield 22 to 30 bushels. The variety is "Turkey Red," and is entirely free from mixture with other varieties, cheat or weeds. Besides the increased yield the wheat on the treated land will be ready for harvest much earlier than on other fields, an advantage that is appreciated by those desiring to get threshing over as early as possible.

System Helps

The management of several hundred acres planted to cultivated crops, necessitates the use of a large amount of machinery and tools, and to keep these in repair at a minimum of expense requires an intelligent and systematic oversight and in this department Mr. Allen is ably assisted by his son Ralph, who has had a course in Farm Mechanics in the University of Illinois. "System" seems to be the watchword on the Allen Farm. There is a spacious workshop well supplied with tools and materials for quickly repairing machinery and implements, while in a shed nearby is stored a very good supply of hard wood lumber cut into proper dimensions for wagon tongues, coupling poles, double and single trees, wagon beds, hay racks, etc. With this equipment, when the weather will not permit out door work, time is profitably spent in getting everything in good repair. Each tool belonging in the work shop has its place on the wall; pasted on the wall directly beneath it is its facsimile cut from heavy cardboard; a glance at the wall gives one an inventory of all missing tools. By making each person responsible for the return of tools removed by him a system is established whereby the tools are usually to be found in their proper places.

Mr. Allen believes in education for usefulness. He has four boys and five girls and as each of these finish high school they enter the University of Illinois to complete their education in agriculture and household science.—H. A. McKeene, Secy., Illinois Farmers Institute, Springfield, Illinois.

TRAIN WRECK HURTS MANY

Cars Overturn With Tourists in Colorado.

Boulder, Colo., July 28.—Twenty-seven persons were injured, some seriously, in a wreck on Switzerland trail near here, when four cars overturned. The cars were filled with tourists.

The cars were on the Rio Grande, Boulder & Western railroad. Among the probably fatally injured were Mrs. Martha Chalfont and Miss Blanche Chalfont, Shinnston, W. Va.; Mrs. John Henson and Laura Henson, Chicago. All suffered internal injuries and cuts from breaking glass.

Nutley, N. J., July 28.—Four men were killed in the wreck of a construction train near West Nutley and a score are reported severely injured. The wreck took place on the single track Newark branch of the Erie railroad, which for six or seven miles runs through a long stretch of woodland near Nutley. The locomotive and the cars of the work train left the rail, crushing the men.

TREATY PLAN IS CHANGED

Secretary of State Confers With Senators on Subject.

Washington, July 28.—Important modifications will be made in the proposed protectorate treaty with Nicaragua. It was discovered that the agreement originally outlined by Secretary Bryan would prevent Nicaragua from ever joining other republics to form a Central American union, a possibility this government has no intention to prevent.

At a conference between Secretary Bryan and members of the state foreign relations committee it was agreed the original draft of the treaty should be changed and definite statements included in the compact to provide that it should not stand in the way of Central American combination.

U. S. DEMAND FREES WOUNDED OFFICER

Huerta Soldiers Arrested for Shooting Immigration Inspector.

YANKEE REMOVED TO EL PASO

Charles B. Dixon, Jr., Finally Released by Federals at Juarez When Ultimatum Is Sent From Washington Government.

El Paso, Tex., July 28.—Following the demand made by American Consul T. D. Edwards, the Mexican federal officials at Juarez, Mex., released Charles B. Dixon, Jr., the United States immigration inspector who was shot in the back on Saturday by Mexican federal troops. Mr. Dixon was taken to a hospital at El Paso, Tex. The demand of Consul Edwards was in vigorous language. The consul said relative to repatriation:

"I do not merely request the arrest of these men, but in the name of the United States government, which I have the honor to represent, I demand their immediate punishment for this crime. My government will hold the military authorities of Juarez personally responsible for failure to obey this command."

Soldiers Are Jailed.

Arthur Walker, the negro who Dixon was investigating when he was arrested, and the soldiers who made the arrest were immediately placed in jail, according to the report of Colonel Castro, commanding the Juarez garrison, to F. W. Berkshire, supervising inspector of immigration for the United States on the Mexican border.

Dixon was released to Mr. Berkshire and brought to El Paso to a hospital, where his physicians believe he will recover. When the Mexican soldiers had apprehended Dixon they marched him to the suburbs of the city instead of the military barracks or city hall. This, according to Dixon's statement, gave rise to the suspicion that he was going to be executed. As a matter of self-preservation, he declared, he took to flight and became the target of many bullets.

Wounded, he was taken to the Juarez hospital by his captors, and there, under a military guard of three soldiers, he was kept from Saturday afternoon until late Sunday, when he was removed to El Paso.

Indignation at the Mexicans runs high in El Paso, and the treatment accorded Dixon has strained relations in this city between Americans and Mexicans as has no other incident attendant upon the present revolution.

U. S. Takes Drastic Action.

Washington, July 28.—The shooting and serious wounding of United States immigration inspector Charles B. Dixon by Mexican federal troops at Juarez while Mr. Dixon was performing his official duties has aroused the administration to rapid action and has further complicated the problem President Wilson has before him of determining what is to be the policy of the United States toward Mexico.

There were other developments in the last 24 hours which have muddled the already thoroughly mixed and acute relations of the United States toward Mexico. These developments were:

Official Report Received.

It was not until Sunday that the administration received an official report on the shooting of Inspector Dixon. The state department received a report from the American consul at Juarez, Thomas Edwards, and Secretary of Labor Wilson received an account of the shooting of Immigration Inspector Berkshire, in charge of the El Paso district. Both were laid before the president, who had with him the general report made to Secretary of State Bryan by Ambassador Wilson. Both official reports corroborated the press dispatches.

Bryan Demands Arrests.

Secretary Bryan telegraphed Consul Edwards to demand of the commandants of the garrison at Juarez that the officer and men connected with the shooting be arrested at once. Mr. Edwards was instructed to further demand that the men be held until their testimony can be taken by the consul. This is an unprecedented step. It is unusual for American consuls to examine foreigners charged with the commission of a crime on an American.

This testimony will be used by the state department in carrying its demand to Huerta for the punishment at once of the officer, a half-breed negro, and his men.

The United States government also demanded the immediate release of Charles Bissell and Bernard McDonald, mining managers, imprisoned by federal soldiers at Chihuahua City, and said to be threatened with execution.

Moors Kill Six Travelers.

Madrid, July 28.—It is announced that Kabyle tribesmen between Tetuan and Ceuta, Morocco, ambushed and attacked a carriage containing a party of Spanish officials. Secretary Gutierrez, Senor Mazano, a servant, a coachman and a baby were killed and three other members of the party were wounded, including Senor Gutierrez. A three-year-old child was the only person in the carriage that escaped injury.

FRED A. BRITTEN

Congressman Britten of Chicago is leading the fight for more torpedoes for the navy. He says there are not enough torpedoes in this country to fight one round in a combat with another nation.

VICE-PRESIDENCY O. K.

Marshall Says He Enjoys Job at Washington.

Delivers Speech at Moose Banquet at Chicago and Urges Action on the Tariff.

Chicago, July 28.—While a guest of the Royal Order of Moose in this city, "Tom" Marshall of Columbia City, Ind., declared that he liked the job of being vice-president of the United States and gave his reasons. Mrs. Marshall is with him.

"The senate is a great institution," he added. "The senators are all fine fellows—all of them—Republicans as well as Democrats. So is 'Charley' Higgins, the sergeant at arms. It's a nice place to work."

The vice president was guest of honor of the Loyal Order of Moose at a banquet. The banquet was the closing function prior to the cornerstone laying of the industrial university at Mooseheart, near Aurora, which will be celebrated with the vice president as the chief actor.

Mr. Marshall announced to a group of interviewers that he wanted to be quoted as a citizen of Indiana and not as a member of the administration. He was induced, however, to discuss briefly the tariff and currency bills, the lobby inquiry, and the responsibility resting on the party in power.

Some one suggested an observation on the Mexican situation.

"I don't know anything about it," he asserted.

"As to the tariff," he continued, "it will be passed by the senate about August 15, if the Democrats preserve their good nature and let the Republicans talk."

"What in your opinion will be the result of the lobby investigation?" was asked.

"I have nothing to do with the inquiry," the vice president answered, "but it is the result of the habit of the American people who want something to go to Washington to get it. The lobbyist is a necessary corollary of the protective tariff."

"A man seeking office cannot be blamed for using his natural right in getting it, which does not mean he must do wrong. The present inquiry at Washington I think is but a humane one in its inception. Some one got something, some one else believed should have gone to some other fellow. I do not believe that many men elevated to office ever do really know the full extent by which they were chosen."

Turning to the currency bill the vice president said the proposed law undoubtedly would pass congress.

Mr. Marshall grew serious when he remarked that the Democratic party was on trial in the nation. He expressed the belief that President Wilson was making good.

ENTIRE FAMILY WIPED OUT

Murder and Suicide Suspected on Canadian Farm.

Rumley, Alta., July 28.—George Robinson and his wife Maggie and their two children, Alice and Matthew, both aged twelve, were found dead at the Robinson farm home, near here. All four had died from the effects of bullet wounds.

Authorities believe that Robinson, near whom a repeating rifle and empty shells were found, shot his wife and children and then turned the gun on himself. They had been dead at least twelve hours.

Friends of the family are at a loss to account for the motive that actuated the deed.

French Aviator Is Killed.

Toulouse, France, July 28.—M. Chamberlain, an aviator, was killed near Hauteville, when a hydroplane he was driving fell.

WILSON FAVORS HUERTA REGIME

Ambassador's Report to Secretary of State Is Given in Part.

INTERVENTION NOT WANTED

Asserts Provisional Government Controls Republic Up to Twenty-Sixth Parallel—U. S. May Enter Northern Part to Suppress Disorder.

New York, July 28.—According to a special dispatch from Washington to the New York Herald, it is possible to summarize the most significant portions of the report which Ambassador Wilson submitted to Secretary of State Bryan on conditions in Mexico. Calls Huerta Supreme.

Ambassador Wilson thinks General Huerta is a big man and that he is the only government worthy of the name in Mexico. He suggests that the Huerta government be recognized on these conditions:

That it controls all Mexico up to the twenty-sixth parallel, and is competent to hold and will hold a constitutional election at an early date.

That it come to an agreement with the United States in regard to the Chamizal boundary dispute occasioned by the shifting of the course of the Rio Grande at El Paso, Tex.

That it come to an agreement with the United States regarding control of the Colorado river, whose shifting course has endangered Americans in the Imperial valley of California.

That the perpetrators of the Alamo murders be punished.

That all legitimate foreign obligations be discharged.

That authority be granted the United States to enter northern Mexico and suppress disorders above the twenty-sixth parallel.

Is Opposed to Intervention.

The ambassador does not favor intervention, but feels it his duty to outline certain considerations to be borne carefully in mind against such a contingency. First, he said that all Americans should be called out of Mexico, and then the United States should declare in the most emphatic terms that it was intervention only to restore order and had no intention of remaining in Mexico or acquiring territory.

TRAIN CRASHES INTO AUTO

Girl Killed and Others Are Hurt in Illinois.

Aurora, Ill., July 28.—A five passenger automobile into which nine persons, six little children and three grown ups had been crowded went dead on the Burlington railroad tracks near Sugar Grove last night just as a fast express train came into sight.

None of those in the car had time to escape, but miraculously some escaped injury. Lillian Sanderson, six years old, was killed and Viola Sanderson, four years old, was fatally injured. Mrs. Sanderson was internally injured, but may live. A two-month-old boy baby was thrown seventy feet, but was unhurt.

Walter, eleven years old, Anna aged nine, two-year-old Warren, and Miss Lula Brown, the children's nurse, escaped with bruises.

Peoria, Ill., July 28.—One person was killed and five injured in an automobile accident near Chillicothe. The dead: Forrest Lawrence. The injured: Lee Alder, Deet Saad, J. Burroughs, Lands and Frank Brockway. All are residents of Chillicothe. Lawrence lost control of his machine and it plunged over an embankment, pinning the five occupants underneath, when it turned turtle.

GUNS TAKEN FROM REBELS

Police of Shanghai Roundup Revolvers and Disarm Them.

Shanghai, July 28.—In accordance with a proclamation issued Saturday, the municipal police, reinforced by a strong body of Shanghai volunteers, went to the rebel headquarters at Chapel, where they disarmed 300 soldiers and twelve officers and took six three-inch guns. There was no actual resistance.

All was quiet here during the day. Detachments of American, British, Japanese, French and Italian blue-jackets are patrolling the foreign settlement and the Chapel boundaries.

The departure of transports from Chefoo points to the probability of a battle at the Wu-Sung arsenal.

AUTO PLUNGES INTO RIVER

Two Women Are Drowned in the St. Lawrence.

Montreal, July 28.—Two women were drowned in the St. Lawrence river when an automobile in which they were sitting ran off the deck of the ferry steamer South and plunged into the river. Mrs. Charles Morrison, twenty-eight years old, of this city, and Mrs. J. Cheyne, twenty-six years old, of St. Henry, were the victims.

Two Sisters Die of Burns.

New York, July 28.—Two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson of 17 West Tenth street, and Mrs. Emma Franklin of Erie, Pa., died at St. Vincent's hospital as the result of frightful burns received, when a can of kerosene oil exploded.

Winter Eggs at a Profit

By Clarence A. Shamel, Class of '91,
University of Illinois, Editor of Orange-Judd Farmer.

During the first six months of 1912 I secured from twenty-one hens on a small lot in the northern part of Chicago 1,687 eggs. These eggs at the current market prices for so-called fresh eggs in Chicago would cost $63. The feed I had to buy, the straw used for nests, fixtures for the house, the seed oats used for producing sproutwhich is considerably lower than the same kind of eggs could have been secured in my locality.

The feed consists primarily of table scraps. We have a family usually of about six and of course there is considerable refuse from the kitchen. All of this is carefully taken care of and fed. Potato parings are boiled, bones are broken up so that they can be eaten. Of course, lettuce and cabbage leaves and other refuse of this kind is fed fresh as it has a high value.

The grain feed consisted of the ordinary poultry mixture secured from the feed store. That was all the grain feed they were given except sprouted oats.

For grit, I kept constantly before the chickens fine gravel picked up along the shores of Lake Michigan, also a box full of finely broken lime stone such as is used for ballasting railroad tracks. Then when the hired girl broke a dish, I pounded this up as it supplied a little different form of grit.

I took good care of the hens. I wasn't fussy about it at all, but at least once a week I thoroughly cleaned the chicken house, changed the straw in the nests and sprayed the entire interior of the building with a mixture of kerosene and water.

During the last half of the year I kept no record as I was away from home the greater part of the time. This season I am keeping a record similar to the one for the first six months of 1912. I have thirty-one hens this year and up to and including January 26, I have secured 167 eggs against seventy-six last year for the corresponding period. In other words with about a third more hens, I have secured more than twice as many eggs. This can be accounted ed oats for feed cost me $14.80, leaving a profit of $48.20.

In the fall of 1911 I decided that although I lived on a small city lot I would like to produce some winter eggs. We have a couple of babies at the house and it was practically impossible to secure strictly fresh eggs at any price. I happen to have a fine garage but no automobile, so I made this garage over into a chicken house and of course it is a good one. My mother who lives down in the central part of the state, sent me 21 grade Barred Plymouth Rock pullets. They were not very early chickens so I didn't secure many eggs up to January 1. I kept no record of the eggs up to that time but thinking that I would like to know just what I secured in the way of eggs and the cost of producing them in the city, I kept careful account of the money I spent and every day recorded the number of eggs gathered. My egg record for the six months is as follows: January, 115; February, 241; March, 321; April, 408; May, 330; June, 272. This is a total as stated above of 1,687.

In making my calculations, I placed a value of sixty cents a dozen upon the eggs produced during January, February and March, 1912. This is what so-called eggs were selling for in Rogers Park where I live. For the remaining three months I have given the value of 25 cents a dozen, for by the extremely mild weather which had prevailed so far in 1912.

Of course in all this I did not count my work, but every other item that cost anything was taken into consideration.

The Distribution of Weed Seeds Presence in Unlooked-for Spots Due to Their Vitality.

By Leonard Hegnauer, Professor of Crop Production.

The rapidity with which certain weed species increase, especially in places unlooked for, has led some men to assume that they originate spontaneously. They have observed, for example, that often a piece of meadow, which has not been broke for many years and which shows no weeds at all, will bring forth a great crop of these plants when it is plowed. Such cases as these may be quite easily explained when one studies the structure and vitality of weed seeds and the methods of their distribution.

Many weed seeds are provided with dense and heavy seed coats, often so dense that they are impervious to water. No seed is able to germinate unless water may first enter the tissues, soften the dry substances, and prepare the way for the activities of germination. To be sure, more than this is necessary—proper temperature and oxygen are also required. By means of this dense seed coat, a seed may be able to exclude water and thus lie in the ground many years and lose its vitality. Again, a seed may have been covered so deeply that oxygen has been excluded and germination is impossible. Conditions in a sod field may be thus unfavorable and after a seed has been in the ground for twenty years or more the essentials of germination may all suddenly appear and the seed begins to sprout.

The prevalence of weeds is thus largely due to the great vitality of their seeds and the relative ease of their distribution.

In order to study the means of distribution we may group them under two heads, natural and artificial. Under natural means of distribution we may include any method the plant may be able to employ, by means of which natural agencies aid in scattering its seed. In this connection water and wind are two of the most prolific sources. Some seeds have special appendages so that winds may easily carry and deposit them where they were formerly unknown. In other cases, seeds may be carried by the wind because they remain attached to the plant and the plant itself in turn is adapted to wind distribution.

Important as these natural methods are in the distribution of plants, they are relatively insignificant when compared with the artificial means of distribution. It is possible, however, to speak here of only a few of the more important ones. Under this head might be mentioned the carelessness of many farmers in allowing weeds to mature in many places other than cultivated fields. It is only too often the case that farmers neglect some hedge row or other waste land and allow these to become sources of infection.

Perhaps one of the most prolific sources of weed infestation is due to the use of impure farm seeds. Farmers often buy inferior seed because it is cheap. They imagine that a few weed seeds per pound, in our grass seeds, can do but little harm. Here we are apt to be greatly misled. A poor quality of seed is high at any price. It ought to be impossible to sell such seed upon the market.

SMART HOUSE FROCK

Borders of Fur Mark the Latest French Designs.

Red the Prevailing Color for the Remarkably Handsome Tea Gowns That Are Now the Vogue—For the Afternoon Meal.

Paris, France.—Exaggerated collars and cuffs are often the most effective features of more elaborate house dresses. Sometimes these garnishments are of embroidered mull; then again they will be made of handsome embroidered chiffon over a contrasting color. Fur, too, enters largely in the trimmings of house gowns of the better class. If the fur is applied in narrow bands it borders the tunic, sleeves and neck. Sometimes merely a touch of fur is used when a cluster of tails hold the draped skirt in place. Many of the extravagant house robes are of chiffon over a foundation of metallic embroidery done in silver or gold. Such gowns are ornate and require handsome decorations in the house, otherwise they seem utterly out of place.

This season has brought out some particularly handsome tea gowns in reds, a color that not so very long ago was considered far too garish for dainty results. The new reds of the present time are so lovely in texture, so harmonious in shading and design, that they have a strong hold on sartorial fashions. Take, for example, the soft red broche crepe or brocade chamoisee trimmed with dark fur and dyed lace with here and there a touch of dull gold or silver. It would hardly be possible to imagine anything richer, and especially when designed for a dark beauty. There are also in these fascinating new reds, certain soft tones that are exceedingly becoming to the blonde type, and when embellished with delectable laces the success of the combination is lovely beyond description.

Along Negligee Lines.

The crepe house frocks often take on lines of the negligee combined with some sort of lace, net or chiffon coat or tunic affect. One of the handsomest of this style was of peach blossom pink crepe, draped with cell blue chiffon, over which was a conventional design of peach blossoms done with split silk threads and touches of silver tinsel. One side showed the coat effect falling low, almost to the hem of the robe, and on the other it was much shorter. All around the tunic was bordered with a narrow band of dove-gray marabout caught here and there with a cluster of tiny flowers in shades of pink, violet and blue. The under-robe was laid in soft folds that fell in long, graceful lines from the high waist line to the floor, where it floated several inches at sides and back. The front was caught above the ankle and held with a cluster of flowers.

Muffs are getting smaller! Paris shows them smaller and we are beginning to see an occasional one, tiny and round with room inside for the hands only, the wrists protected by the cuffs or not. This is not, however, to be interpreted as a command to throw away or cut down your big, roomy, pillow muff. Not for a season, anyhow.

Pretty Footwear.

Smart women just now are taking very kindly to the new buttoned strap pumps, especially of the two-strap style, more conservative than the three and more dressy than the one. For carriage and indoor wear they are much affected by the woman who defies the rigors of the weather when it comes to a matter of pretty footwear. Gun metal calf is popular, with leather or cloth uppers. They are buttoned—the button is the thing when it comes to a matter of choosing the right model!

Eolienne is one of the newest fabrics for afternoon dress. It is a stuff, being silk and wool, that falls into just the right sort of drapery lines, and has a surface rich enough for an elaborate three-piece suit to be worn with the fur set, or for a delightful bridge party frock.

The same thing may be said of crepe de chine of the beautiful heavy variety. For the coat of a three-piece suit of crepe it would be better to use velvet, lined, perhaps with the crepe. The velvet coat with a silk or cloth three-piece is very smart both in America and in Paris. Besides, crepe de chine is adapted for embroidery and embroidered stuffs are coming to the fore. Crepe de chine is again a leader in petticoat material, if one wants silk instead of dainty, sheer, clinging Swiss embroidery.

Afternoon Frocks.

At an afternoon tea the other day there were two frocks that had sufficient individuality and personality—if one may use the word in such a connection—to warrant a description all by themselves. One was worn by a woman of full figure and was unusually appropriate, while adhering to the edicts of style. A cream net tunic, brilliantly beaded and embroidered with flowers in somewhat bright colors, had been made with a plain skirt of old gold satin. Over the entire garment had been most deftly draped black marquisette, in very long lines that gave slenderness to the figure. It was crossed surplice-wise in the bodice, leaving a very low neck that held pieces of cream lace crossing the shoulders. The skirt was black satin, ending in a long sash at the left side, tucked very firmly into its place to give a loose and artistic effect that held to slim figure lines. The draperies of the skirt, careless as they seemed, were tucked ever so carefully!

The other dress was worn by the hostess. It was made of muslin embroidered wrought on very fine cream batiste, the eyelets and the solid design in colors, old blue, green, rose and tan. The design of the dress was very simple, and purposely so, to show off the most exquisite pattern of the material, which really trimmed itself, without the necessity of a lot of additional adornment. The hostess whispered an admission that her own home sewing woman had made the dress after the design that she herself had chosen.

Colors Are Gorgeous.

This season's gorgeous display of colors and fabrics makes choosing much less difficult. A very stunning little robe in midnight blue cashmere de soie shows much originality in design. The tunic is made of silver gray satin draped around the figure and in part finished with long sash ends trimmed with fringe. This tunic is decidedly longer at the back, but does not reach to the bottom of the underskirt, which is quite narrow and has a slight train. The waist is quaint and quite unusual with a front of cream net, the bands of the sleeves of embroidered chiffon and the upper part of the sleeves of embroidered crepe and a collarless yoke and deep cuffs of heavy lace.

The model under discussion is more on the order of the robe d'intérieur than other styles mentioned, but is just as loose fitting and consequently as comfortable as any tea gown would be. With all such gowns there should be the unlined lining of China silk or mull and cut so that it can be worn without a corset. A noticeable feature with the smartest house gowns is, that they are slashed somewhere on the skirt or blouse, showing a dark or contrasting color in the fold. Cordings and pipings are well adapted with that idea, but unless they be of velvet they seem hard and unless the velvet be of softest texture the effect is clumsy looking. The important point is to have things soft and airy rather than stiff and regular in line.

If one prefers a light weight house robe of a simple, unpretentious kind, the silk-lined albatross is perhaps the most satisfactory. French challis is a practical material for this use, but garments made of challis are more on the negligee order and hardly suitable for general indoor use. We have seen some likable house frocks made of supple light weight broadcloth with frills of plaited lace or net in sleeves and neck. The typical French house dress has a long coatlike overdress of soft voile or chiffon bordered with a band of marabout or ostrich feathers in the same tone. The tails of the coat or tunic fall over a soft skirt of brocade velvet or satin. A handsome gown of this character was developed in soft tones of mauve and green, or rather that superb new shade of a greenish blue that blends so beautifully with mauve.

In our illustration the first gown is of pink mousseline de soie made up over taffeta or liberty in the same shade. The blouse forms a wide box plait in front and is finished around the neck with a kulpmpe and ruffles of the same material.

The skirt is composed of three deep ruffles, and the girlole is of liberty or taffeta like the foundation.

The other gown is of greenish blue mousseline de soie made up over changeable green and yellow glace taffeta. The blouse is finished around the low neck with gold fringe, which forms all the sleeves there are. Inside this is a little ruffle of white tulle or lace.

The skirt is in thin stages, trimmed with the gold fringe. The girlole is of green liberty. With this striking costume are worn gold slippers, with green silk stockings.

Buttermilk Cakes.

One quart of buttermilk, one level teaspoonful of salt, two eggs, flour to make a thin batter and one teaspoonful of baking soda. Beat up the eggs well, add to them the buttermilk, then add the salt and mix thoroughly. Dissolve the soda in two tablespoonfuls of boiling water, then stir it into the batter. Now gradually add the flour, stirring all the time, until you have a batter that will pour smoothly from a spoon. Give a good beating and bake quickly on a hot, well-greased griddle.

TRICKS OF DISEASED MIND

Psychic Epilepsy Has a Most Peculiar Way of Making Itself Manifest.

Psychic epilepsy is sometimes one of the very unusual manifestations of a diseased mind in which the evidences of disease are so obscure that frequently, for a number of years, the fact that an individual is suffering from an abnormal condition may escape notice.

The condition may manifest itself in many peculiar ways. In some cases the individual may be eating a meal and suddenly, without warning, his eyes take on a far-away look; he drops what he has in his hands, and within a few seconds he looks around in astonishment and surprise to see that he has dropped something or that people are observing him peculiarly, and asks "What has occurred?"

In other cases these attacks are very much more complicated and last longer, during which the patient may appear normal and carry out activities that require judgment and skill. The attacks may last several hours, days, weeks or months.

The patient, when he recovers, absolutely has no recollection of what has occurred during the attack, and if he comes to himself in surroundings unfamiliar, he is at a loss to explain his situation. Always the last things which the patient remembers are surroundings and circumstances which immediately precede the attack. The constant feature of all these attacks is the fact that during them there is either a total loss or a peculiar perversion of consciousness.

This is particularly important in certain classes of railroad employees, those upon whose quick interpretation of signals the safety of many lives depends.—Irving J. Spear, M. D., in the New York World.

CRUELEST WORSHIP IN WORLD

Tribe in India Who Inflict Horrible Torture on Persons to Please Their Idols.

Calcutta.—The cruelest and the kindest idols in the world have been located in India by Hugh Fisher, the English archaeologist. Kail, the tutelary deity of that well organized federation of professional assassins called the Thugs, is the cruelest, while Jagannath, or Jagannatha, the "lord of the world," is the kindest.

In the role of the cruelest the idol of Kail is terrible to behold. It is black, with four arms, the palms of the hands smeared with blood. In one hand is a sword and in another the severed head of one of the god's victims. The face and the breast of this idol are smeared with blood and the eyes are red. Her hair is matted and she has projecting, tanglike teeth between which protrudes a tongue dripping blood. In some of the idols of this dread goddess she wears a necklace of skulls, and she is girded with serpents.

The ritual performed in the worship of Kail involves the most revolting rites, which the British government has long tried to suppress, but not with complete success. To the "true worshippers of Kail" human sacrifice is essential. The victim, always a male, was taken to the temple after sunset and there imprisoned. The next morning he was dead and the priests told the people that Kail had sucked his blood in the night.

Cutting their flesh and burning portions of their bodies is part of the devotion required of Kail's worshippers. It is in her worship that the famous "hook swinging festival" was held until prohibited by the British. Those who vowed themselves to self-torture submitted to be swung in the air from hooks which passed through their muscles just over the shoulder blades. The hooks were hung from a long cross beam which seesawed upon a long upright pole. The victim was thus hoisted into the air and swung in a circle for fifteen or twenty minutes. Many died under the excruciating pain.

Immense Sum for Harbor.

Brazil is preparing to spend $39,000,000 in improvements upon the harbor of Para, the commercial metropolis of the Amazon valley and the greatest rubber exporting center of the world. Formerly large vessels, owing to the shallowness of the water, were obliged to lie some miles from the quays. A considerable part of the new quay wall will have a depth alongside of from thirty to thirty-two and a half feet.

Swiss Steak.

Have the meat cut an inch or more in thickness. Place it on the rolling board and cover it with a cup or two of flour in which you have placed your seasoning ingredients. With the edge of a plate pound the flour into the meat. You will find that you can force two ordinary cupfuls into a couple pounds of meat without difficulty. Treat both sides of the cut alike. Leave it then for an hour. When the meat refuses to take more flour, place it in a heavy covered skillet and just cover with water. Let it cook for two hours over a slow, simmering fire and when you serve it you will have something that will almost literally melt in your mouth. The flour, meat juices and water form a thick gravy that is not the last delicious part of the dish.

Beef Pie.

Cut remnants of cold roast beef in one-inch cubes. Cover with boiling water, add one-half onion and cook slowly one hour. Remove onion thickened gravy with flour, diluted with cold water, and season with salt and pepper. Add potatoes cut in quarter inch slices, which have been parboiled eight minutes in boiling salted water. Put in a buttered pudding dish, cool, cover with baking powder biscuit mixture or pie crust. Bake in a hot oven. If covered with pie crust make several incisions in crust that gases may escape. You can buy a piece of stew meat and cook for pie but this is a good way to use left over beef.

To Foot Stockings.

To refoot stockings, I crochet the foot and leg together with a short stitch, using a silky cotton, writes a contributor to Modern Priscilla. It should be crocheted loose enough so that when the foot and upper are pulled the edges will meet. In this way it avoids a seam and will not hurt the ankle. Previously I always had trouble with the sewing ripping when putting the stocking on; it would not give, and the thread would crack. Since I have tried this way I do not have any trouble. The crochet stretches with the stocking.

Standard Sponge Cake.

The following is the ordinarily standard sponge cake, and needs no baking powder to raise. Add one cup of fine granulated sugar. Beat again. Add the juice and grated rind of one lemon and beat again. Add the stiffly beaten whites of five eggs and beat once more. Fold in slowly one cup of flour sifted three times. Bake in a moderate oven for one hour. Do not open the oven door for 15 minutes after putting the cake in.

Three-Egg Cake.

One cup sugar, one-half cup butter beaten to a cream, whites of three eggs beaten to a froth, one-half cup sweet milk, or one teaspoon baking powder; flavor with lemon and two cups of flour. Frosting—Beat the yolks of two eggs with two teaspoons of sugar, and while the cake is hot and in the pan put on the frosting and put in damp place.

Scalloped Cabbage With Meat.

Boil a head of cabbage in two waters, and when you cook cabbage always leave the pot uncovered and have standing near it on the stove a cup of vinegar. Drain the cabbage, let it cool and chop it fine. Butter a pudding dish and strew it with fine crumbs. On this put a layer of minced cabbage seasoned with salt and pepper; dot it with bits of butter, then put on more crumbs and a layer of chopped corned beef. You may use ham, but in this case omit the salt from the layers of cabbage. Continue in this way until your dish is full. Pour in a cupful of this liquor, in which your corned beef was boiled, strew crumbs on the top, and over this grated cheese, bake, covered for half an hour, uncover and brown. Serve in the dish in which it was cooked.

FIVE SPLENDID SALADS

MAY PROPERLY BE SERVED AT DINNER OR LUNCHEON.

Combination of Prunes and Pecan Nuts is a Favorite—With Apples and Dates—Nut Stuffing for Tomatoes.

Delicious salads to serve with roast meats or at a luncheon of bread and butter:

Prune and Pecan Nut Salad—Soak a quarter of a pound of prunes over night in cold water, then cook on the back part of the stove until tender, no longer; the water should be evaporated by that time. When cold, cut from the stones in lengthwise pieces. Cut pecan meats in slices and mix with olive oil and lemon juice, salt and red pepper. Turn over lettuce and serve.

Apple and Date Salad—Peel and core three choice apples and cut them in match-like pieces; these should be about a pint. Squeeze the juice of half a lemon over the apple. Pour boiling water over half a pound of dates, skim out and dry in the oven. When cold, cut each date in four pieces, rejecting the stones; sprinkle with a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and four tablespoonfuls of olive oil. Mix the apple and date and set aside in a cool place for an hour. When ready to serve add more oil and lemon juice if the mixture seems dry. Serve in a bowl lined with blanched heart leaves of lettuce.

Pineapple Salad—Shred one pineapple, add half the amount of white grapes skinned and seeded, an equal quantity of celery cut in small pieces and half a cup of brazil nuts peeled and sliced in small pieces. Moisten with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce leaves garnished with cherries.

Oranges peeled and sliced placed on a bed of crisp watercress and served with French dressing is a most delectable salad to serve with a duck dinner.

Tomato and Nut Salad—Scoop out the centers of a half dozen tomatoes; to the drained pulp add equal amount of chopped walnuts and a fourth of a cup of chopped green peppers. Serve with mayonnaise dressing. Fill the shells and garnish with mayonnaise.

Princess Pudding.

At the bottom of a good-sized mold place a layer of water ice an inch thick and cover to the same thickness with vanilla ice cream. Next add one pint of any frozen fruit, as brandied peaches, apricots, etc. Fill up the mold with ice cream and put on the lid. Bind a cloth around the opening, pack and leave for two or three hours. When ready to serve, hold a warm towel around the mold and turn out on a dish. Dust with macaroon dust and serve.

Cheese Balls.

Roll cream cheese into little balls, putting into each an almond and a tiny red pepper. Drop each ball into olive oil, to be kept until required. Sometimes the outside of each ball is rubbed with an onion to give an extra flavor.

Hot Water Sponge Cake

Seven eggs, two cups of flour, two cups powdered sugar, one-half cup of boiling water, one grated lemon peel, beat white of eggs stiff separately and add last. Bake in medium oven.
